CFO Magazine

by Esther Shein

WHAT'S HOT THIS SUMMER

You may not know these five products and services. You should.

Here at CFO, we get a lot of information from technology vendors offering products that promise to do everything from scrubbing your numbers to cleaning your computer screen. We dutifully evaluate these offerings so you don't have to. Lo and behold, some actually merit a little ink.

To winnow down our list, we summarily dismissed any product described by a vendor as „seamless,” „mission critical,” or „way cool.” Even then, we also had to omit several excellent products for space reasons. For example, we recently visited the latest version of Teliris's VirtuaLive, a telepresence conference room replete with high-definition screens and integrated audio, and it's a knockout. Managers at any multinational business looking to cut down on travel expenses should seriously consider it. Those who have no choice but to hit the road on a regular basis will do well to look at Siber Systems's RoboForm2Go. This souped up thumbdrive offers road warriors a painless - and secure - way to take their passwords with them. On the road or at home, these five picks merit a closer look.
